

Hi Everyone,

These are the current map drafts for the Grand Tour next weekend. You should be able to open these from the links and forward them, but please test.

Saturday is over 200miles. I will add a little bit to Sunday but I think it will stay under 200 miles.

A couple of complications are 1)243 is closed about half way down so I have the group coming back up to Idyllwild. I am wondering what is being done about credit on the CA 15 for 243? 2) 74 from Hemet to Idyllwild requires being escorted in groups. I drove it yesterday in the car and there are many sections that are not paved. Bad mudslides still under repair until Labor Day. I saw bikes on it, and it will add time to go down that way but it is doable. The San Diego people will probably go back down to 79 and the head West to 15 from there or further south.

Let me know if you have any questions or comments and if you think Saturday is too long.
